

Jenny Tebbutt: Bachelor of Teaching, Post graduate Diploma in Literacy, a past Director for SPELD NZ's Certificate Course.

Jenny Tebbutt is an educational consultant working in Australasia alongside primary, secondary, post-secondary schools and organisations since 2000 to raise achievement in at risk groups within the education sector.

She is a past Director for SPELD NZ's NZQA approved Level 5 Certificate Course in Specific Learning Disabilities, and is the current consultant to Education and Achievement Association Incorporated. (Formerly ADHD Rotorua).

Jenny has vast experience in low decile schools with high literacy needs and working with schools with predominantly Maori students. She believes that for all students to succeed schools must teach for diversity, meet cultural needs and ensure equal access to the curriculum for all. She has designed and implemented successful transition programmes for Maori students. She has also led a number of projects with schools with moderate learning needs under Group Special Education Ministry of Education funding in New Zealand to enhance student achievement. Jenny previously spent four years on the National Executive of SPELD NZ including a year as President.

"Jenny Tebbutt is uniquely placed as an Educational Consultant, she has been a mainstream teacher, a specialist teacher, a parent of a child with SLD, as well as President of SPELD NZ, and offers PD which looks at mainstream guidelines and practical solutions based on the "notice and adjust" philosophy. Jenny's workshops will not disappoint, Jenny truly cares about raising the achievement of our most vulnerable learners and her skill is to deliver insights and solutions that teachers can utilise in their next lesson"
